Each day, during the school term, Nakiyemba walks to school a distance of almost one kilometer from home. She does so with many children in the town council. They have to walk so fast and sometimes run to be in time for first school activities of the day, sweeping the classrooms and cleaning the compound. One day, after school, Nakiyemba and her friends started walking back home. They had just gone beyond the local market when they saw a mango tree with ripe mangoes. Naluyima the best friend of Nakiyemba suggested picking some mangoes from the tree each. They all agreed and moved towards the mango tree.
