BADLY BEHAVED BOYS

It was around midday when Lalaa and Nyando, the bad boys at Kafuni Primary School made up their minds to escape from school. This happened when the Head teacher of their school, Mr. Bitambo, told all the pupils at the assembly square that there would be a health inspection in the afternoon.

This inspection was to check on the health status of all learners in the school. The badly behaved boys tried to escape because they were among the dirtiest and the shabbiest in the whole school. On the way escaping, they went to the nearby jungle to collect wild honey and gather fruits. Unfortunately, the bees stung them and they ran away breathlessly.

There came a herdsman who was grazing in the jungle and rescued them. He took them to Case Hospital for treatment. The parents of the boys were called to the hospital. Seeing the parents, the boys swore never to escape from school. After a period of two weeks, they were taken back to their school. The Head teacher punished them for their escapism. Now when they think of escapism, they remember the saying, "Once bitten, twice shy."
