ROAD ACCIDENT

My name is Joseph. I go to Nakasero Primary School in Kampala. I usually wake up at six o'clock so as to beat the traffic jam and also get to school in time. One Monday morning, I got up as usual and prepared myself for school. After breakfast, I picked my school bag and went to the stage. I prayed that I get a taxi quickly because it was threatening to rain.

After waiting for a short while, a taxi from Munyonyo came. The driver hooted while the conductor put out his hand calling, "Kampala! Kampala! I stopped it and the conductor told me to sit in the front seat. As soon as I took my seat, the driver said, "young boy, fasten your seat belt". There and then I fastened it.

The driver started the car and by the time we reached the next stage the taxi was already full. We moved on steadily but as we were sloping down towards the junction, a group of school children crossed the road. Some of them did not pay attention to the approaching car. They didn't even bother to look left, right and then left before cross the road. The passengers in the taxi and some pedestrians on the pavement screamed in fear of an accident.

Thanks to the driver's quick decision. He applied the brakes instantly. This helped to save the school children. Unfortunately, the car swayed to one side of the road knocking down a cyclist. The cyclist was badly hurt. He got deep cuts on the head and face because he did not have a helmet on his head.

When the car finally stopped, all of us struggled to get out. Some jumped through the windows while others squeezed through the narrow door.

The accident attracted many people. This slowed the traffic and caused a heavy traffic jam. One concerned passenger rang the police which responded immediately. The police took the injured cyclist to Mulago Hospital for treatment. The taxi driver was taken to the police station for investigation.

People in the crowd were blaming the accident on Kampala Capital City Authority. They accused if for failing to put a zebra crossing on such a busy road. they wondered why there weren't any road signs warning motorists of school children crossing. One old woman said, "This place has become a black spot! I hope this accident will be an eye opener to the authorities to put the necessary measure in place, "the old woman concluded.

Frightened as I was, I decided to continue with my journey to school. By the time I reached, the first lesson had ended but I managed to attend the rest of the lessons.

LESSON 6.

TRAFFIC DANGERS

Poem:

The reckless driver.

I would smile when I go to,
The road for a journey,
I would sit in the moving car comfortably,
And even slumber if I can,
I would have to those I pass by,
With happiness on my face,
But the reckless drivers,
Who mindless about my life,
Cause a lot of terror in my heart.

I would smile when I plan for my journey,
I would even hurry up to the park for a taxi,
I would fight to board a taxi first but this,
Ignorant driver who knows no road signs,
Puts my whole life on tension,
When he increases his speed at a road junction,
He drives madly even at a zebra crossing,
And innocent pedestrians perish,
As they scamper across the busy road.

Lesson Seven:

Read the passage and answer the questions that follow in full sentences.

Education is better than wealth.

That day our teacher Madam. Nabawanuka Teopista entered the classroom with a smile on his face. We all wondered what the smile was about. In fact, we also found ourselves smiling back.

After greeting us, the teacher said "I am very happy today because our school has been invited for a debate competition with Bright Future Junior School. The debate is going to take place on Friday. The motion will be "Education is better than Wealth" Our school will be on the proposers' side. The chairman will be Re. Manyike David. The letter says that the winning school will be given a big bull of the Honourable Member of Parliament.

This news excited all of us. We clapped and danced assuring our teacher victory. Amidst this excitement, the teacher said, 'I am sure we can win this debate if we prepare ourselves properly and follow what I tell you'.

The first thing is to know all the procedures of a debate and the office bearers. The most important person in a debate is the chairperson. He is in charge of the procedure of the debate. All the speakers must get permission from him. The next in command is the secretary. This one records the points raised by both sides. The proposers speak in favour of the motion while the opposers speak against it. The other important person is the time keeper. He /she is in charge of managing time. In modern debates, there is a person called a chief whip. His /her role is to enforce discipline in the house. The people in the house are referred to as the audience.

'During the debate, it is important to be alert and observant because your opponent may give wrong information to the house and when this happens you should raise a point of information or a point of correction. In case the speaker gives vague information, you can raise a point of inquiry. And in case of unacceptable behaviour, you are free to raise a point of order or direction.

'Let's now look at the way a good speaker should conduct himself/herself while on the floor. The speaker should be confident because the audience always wants to follow somebody who is sure of what he is talking about. They want a speaker to be audible enough for everyone to hear him/her. The speaker has the task of showing the audience that he/she is worth their time and emotions. And the best way to show them this is by looking at them as this will create a connection with them.

In addition to this, the speaker needs to use varied and appropriate gestures. This will help him to add life to his communication. The other trick a speaker should use is to surprise and tease his audience this is done correctly; it will keep the audience entertained throughout one's presentation.

Lastly, there is need to research on the motion in order to build winning arguments. It is also important to rehearse your points before you come to the floor. 'With all this information, I am very confident that we shall win the debate on that day.

Questions:

1. Why was Madam Teopista happy that day?
2. When will the debate take place?
3. What role does a secretary play in the debate?
4. Which office do you like to hold during debate?

A family is a group consisting of parents, their children and other close relatives. In a family, there are family members who may include; father, mother, children and relatives. All these must be closely related or connected by blood or marriage.

The children include; the male children called the sons and the female ones known as the daughters. The relatives include among others, the grandfather, grandmother, uncle, aunt, nephew, niece and cousin. The other side of relatives is the father-in-law, mother-in-law, brother/sister –in-law, half-brother/ sister and the steps.

The three common types of families in Uganda are; nuclear, extended and foster families. A nuclear family is where we find the parents and their biological siblings. The extended family comprises the parents, children and close relatives. Extended families are bigger than the nuclear ones.

However, on the other hand, the foster family is a new type of family in Uganda. In this family, we find foster parents living with adopted children. The parents here are not the real parents or even at times not related at all. to become a foster parent, you have to apply in the courts of law.

Families are good because they protect, educate, love care, and feed the members.

Wow! You many not believe it but this is what happened. My elder sister Susan, gave birth to quadruplets. It was quite unusual because most women give birth to one baby but my sister gave birth to four babies at ago. I was very happy to have two nieces and two nephews. Culturally, this meant that relative from both sides had to organise a function to welcome the babies.

The day my sister was discharged from Miracle Hospital, relatives and friends can in large numbers to congratulate and see the newly born quadruplets. My uncles, aunts, cousins, nieces and nephews all came. Other relatives came from Kashari village where my brother in-law comes from. His father, mother, sisters, brothers and cousins also came. It was a big function.

The master of-ceremonies started by calling Susan's father –in-law to speak. In his speech he said, Congratulations my son and daughter-in-law! From today, you have got new names, Ssalongo for you my son and Nnalongo for you my daughter-in-law! Mr.Tumwine, the elder brother to my brother-in-law was the next speaker. He also congratulated his brother on becoming a Ssalongo. This is a title given to a father of twins. He said that their family was growing larger every year. He attributed this to the number of twins, triplets and quadruplets being born in their family. He concluded by wishing everyone a happy celebration.

When our mother stood up to speak, she said, "I am the proudest grandmother today. Whereas other women give birth to only one baby, my daughter has given me four grandchildren. "Isn't that great?" Everyone laughed heartily. "May the good Lord protect and bless your family." she concludes.

Questions:

1. Why were the members of Susan's family happy?
2. How many children did Susan produce?
3. At which village hospital were quadruplets?
4. Which village does Susan's husband come from?

With a plane, I make wonders from wood

Sofa sets, sideboards and cupboards

Wardrobes, counters and frames

I make the most comfortable beds

Where we lay the dead

For the rest of their time

Mvule, Mahogany and Oak

Are the best raw materials in the workshop?

Save for the pine and cypress which are soft wood

While polish makes wood shine

Glue pastes plants together

Yes, the result is something wonderful
